

Chapter 5: Weblinks

www.dfat.gov.au/aia/programs/scholarship_program/youth_exchange_program.html

The best way to understand Indonesia would be to get into an Indonesian young person's shoes and live their life for some weeks. This is possible via exchange programs, for example, and the most popular being the Australia-Indonesia Youth Exchange Program (AIYEP), which began in 1981 and operates under a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between the Indonesian and Australian Governments. The program aims to "provide wider opportunities for the young people of Indonesia and Australia to appreciate the culture, development and the way of life of the other country".

In Australia the organisation is organised and funded by the Australia-Indonesia Institute, Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Canberra. In Indonesia the program is organised by the State Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sport.

www.aseanyouth.org/

The Youth@ASEAN portal is an online community for youths of ASEAN (the Association of Southeast Asian Nations). An initiative of the Senior Official Meeting on Youth, it aims to provide a platform for ASEAN youths to interact and exchange information and knowledge, as well as to offer a one-stop resource database of youth-related information in ASEAN. Check out the exciting youth programmes around ASEAN, and link up with other youth organizations in ASEAN through our network of youth focal points.

www.depnakertrans.go.id/

This is the official website of the Ministry of Manpower and Transmigration in Indonesia. It offers news in both Indonesian and English, and gives information on workplaces, job training, public service and everything you need to know to work in Indonesia, together with important government statistics and other important data.

<http://jobera.com/countries/indonesia/>

In Indonesia job search, if you want your job application to be taken seriously you have to consider all national differences. The Indonesia job search requires more than just the obvious Indonesia CV writing and translation - it requires careful preparation. This website offers useful information to get your dream job, or just a good job, in Indonesia.

All URLs contained in this page and publication were checked for currency during the production process. Note, however, that the publisher cannot vouch for the ongoing currency of URLs.